Environmentally friendly dredging in Key West

BY JAMES BROOKS

NAS Key West Public Affairs Officer

Industrialist Henry Flagler realized the strategic and economic value of Key West's deep-water harbor. Cuban independence, the completion of the Panama Canal and Flagler's business savvy led to the building of the overseas railroad. For Flagler, Key West's deep-water port had great economic opportunities.

Nine decades later, the Key West Harbor dredging project reminds local residents of the harbor's strategic value and economic possibilities as channel depths are being "scooped" back to 34-foot depths. But, unlike time tested methods of dredging with a vacuum style system using seawater, the Key West harbor dredging project is using a more environmental friendly backhoe procedure. This process takes longer and costs more than traditional methods but protects and safeguards the fragile ecosystem of the Florida Keys.

During construction of the overseas railroad, Flagler's engineers alerted the industrialist that there was no land for his railroad

A MAN OF DISTINCTION

David W. Flight, technical director for the Department of Navy's Southernmost Telecommunications Station located on Naval Air Station Boca Chica, was recently awarded the Supervisor of Distinction by the commanding officer of Naval Computer and Telecommunications Station, Jacksonville, Fla.

Flight was nominated by the Detachment's local employees and selected by the awards committee in Jacksonville. Flight received the award for initiating various cost savings programs and eliminating wasteful spending of government and taxpayer funds by implementing the streamlining of various communications departments.

to terminate in Key West. He replied simply that if there was no land then to build it. Dredge materials were used to create Trumbo Point, named after the engineer who directed the project. Land was created to finish the overseas railroad. Given today's stringent environmental standards, similar endeavors could be too costly to undertake. The Key West Harbor dredging project is "building more land", at least in elevation, at Fleming Key and exemplifies the balance between large dredging projects and environmental concern.

At Fleming Key, dredge materials are taken by scow and removed using shovels and dump trucks. Rock and gravel dredged earlier in the project was barged to an approved, offshore site thirteen miles south of Key West in 750 feet of water. When completed, an estimated 819,000 cubic yards of sand, silt and rock will be

The Key West Harbor dredging project employs a specially designed, environment friendly, clamshell-style scoop to dig the channel back to a depth of 34 feet (top). Though slower than traditional dredging methods, this process is more environment-friendly. Dredge materials are placed in a scow where it is moved to either a designated off shore site or Fleming Key for disposal. When filled, dump trucks (above) remove dredge materials from the scow and dump them at approved locations on Fleming Key. Any seawater that may remain evaporates quickly in the afternoon sun. Fleming Key grows a little taller each day.

Lucky us

Three words describe last week's encounter with Hurricane Charley: "We were lucky".

For many of us, Hurricane Charley was the first experience of living and dealing with an approaching hurricane. Everyone can be thankful that we did not get hit like parts of western Florida. But it can happen here and we need to be prepared. Hurricane season is not over and there will be more storms. Let's review what we did right and wrong. Next time we might not be as lucky.

Everyone learned the importance of being prepared. Touring the base and housing areas before the storm hit, I saw many items such as picnic tables, lawn furniture, awnings and barbeques that would be missile hazards in heavy winds. Securing our outdoor gear takes time. When a storm is approaching, get your house in order. Don't wait until the last minute. Take a look at your hurricane kit. Do you have food, water, flashlights, spare batteries and a portable radio? Is the gas tank filled on your car? Procrastinators will discover long lines and empty shelves. Gas supplies at the Navy Exchange may be limited to emergency vehicles only. Don't procrastinate.

Hurricane Charley was forecasted to be a Category 2 storm as it neared Key West. We saw the storm's strength increase rapidly and it didn't take long for it to become a Category 4 storm shortly after it passed Key West. We moved families from Sigsbee and Truman Annex to local shelters because of the threat from flooding. A stronger storm could necessitate evacuating the Florida Keys. In the military, we've learned to follow orders. Follow them! Many residents in western Florida chose to stay despite the state's orders to evacuate. Many of those who chose to stay were injured. Others are dead. Predicting where the storm goes is not a perfect science. Our goal is to make sure everyone stays safe and alive. When the order to evacuate is made, don't think twice about staying and riding the storm out. Follow orders and help your neighbors stay safe, too.

Everyone did a great job and we were lucky. I can't say that enough. We didn't suffer flooding or damage. We got everyone back to work on Monday, safe and sound. I congratulate everyone for preparing the base and housing for Hurricane Charley. Because we live in the Florida Keys, we will have to deal with more hurricanes in the future. Let's use this experience as a good lesson. The next lesson could be much harder.

WOMEN'S EQUALITY DAY
August 26, 2004

Women's Right to Vote

On August 26, 1920 the 19th Amendment to the United States Constitution, which granted women the right to vote, was ratified.

This was the culmination of the long struggle by women searching for the right to vote. In 1971, the U.S. Congress designated August 26 as Women's Equality Day to commemorate the passage of the 19th Amendment and to celebrate women's continuing efforts toward equality.

Why celebrate Women's Equality Day? To commemorate the tremendous positive change brought on by the Women's Movement.

Due to the countless millions of women who planned, organized, lectured, wrote, petitioned, lobbied, paraded, and broke new ground in every field imaginable, our world is irrevocably changed. Women and men of our generation, and the ones to follow us, are living the legacy of the women's rights won against staggering odds in a revolution achieved without violence.

Women can be proud of the legacy of the Women's Rights Movement. Today's activists remind us to celebrate and cherish past and present accomplishments of the Women's Movement before they are lost to history.

Thursday, August 26, join me in celebrating Women's Equality Day at 11:30 a.m. at a luncheon at the Reef!

What did you do this morning?

As you got up this morning I watched you, and hoped you would talk to me, even if it was just a few words, asking my opinion or thanking me for something good that happened in your life yesterday. But I noticed you were too busy, trying to find the right outfit to wear. When you ran around the house getting ready, I knew there would be a few minutes for you to stop and say hello, but you were too busy. At one point you had to wait fifteen minutes with nothing to do except sit in a chair. Then I saw you spring to your feet. I thought you wanted to talk to me but you ran to the phone and called a friend to get the latest gossip instead. I watched patiently all day long. With all your activities I guess you were too busy to say anything to me. I noticed that before lunch you looked around, maybe you felt embarrassed to talk to me, that is why

CONSEP offers win-win situation

BY J01 (SW) ROB WESSELMAN
Southernmost Flyer

A class of 13 first-term Sailors successfully completed Naval Air Station Key West's inaugural Career Options and Navy Skills Evaluation Program (CONSEP) Thursday.

The four-day course covered personal planning, financial planning, Navy career options and career planning. Each of the four main topics, called modules, was then broken down into sub-topics offering a more in-depth explanation of each module.

"CONSEP is designed to give our first-term sailors a reality check," said NCC Shane Morgan, Command Career Counselor and CONSEP administrator. "CONSEP also stresses the importance taking advantage of every program the Navy offers to improve yourself and better prepare for life outside the service."

That message sank in pretty clearly for the CONSEP participants, particularly regarding educational opportunities.

"Now I know not to miss out on the programs the Navy College has to offer," said FC2 Bryan Tolbert, CONSEP participant.

Offering a course like CONSEP demonstrates where the Navy is heading with its Quality of Service initiative, according to CMDCM (SW) Kraig Holubar, NAS Key West Command Master Chief. "Early in my career, the Navy saw Sailors, particularly junior Sailors, as objects rather than people," he said. "They [the Navy] have come to realize that Sailors are human beings and need to be treated as such."

CONSEP offers a win-win situation, Holubar said. "Even if Sailors take this course and separate from the Navy, they will be better prepared to become more productive civilian citizens," he added.

a lot of time each day in front of it not thinking about anything, just enjoying the show. I waited patiently again as you watched the TV and ate your meal, but again you didn't talk to me. Bedtime I guess you felt too tired. After you said goodnight to your family you plopped into bed and fell asleep in no time. That's okay because you may not realize that I am always there for you.

I've got patience, more than you will ever know. I even want to teach you how to be patient with others as well. I love you so much that I wait everyday for a nod, prayer or thought or a thankful part of your heart. It is hard to have a one-sided conversation. Well, you are getting up once again. Dredging moved to return the harbor to "deep water" status.

Less efficient, more environment-friendly dredge methods do translate into higher costs. A key part of the project that gave it an uncharacteristic green light of approval was the extent of environmental monitoring to ensure no damage is being done. The contract provides water quality and habitat protection assurances around-the-clock. The dredge operates a specially designed clamshell-style scoop that digs from the bottom with little disturbance of the seabed around it. Despite the best-engineered machinery, small amounts of sand are stirred up into the water, creating what is called turbidity, and this is closely monitored. Concern was raised that disturbed sand would settle on nearby coral growths and harm or kill it. Periodic inspections are made before, during and after dredge operations to monitor overall health of sea grass and coral and how the sediment settles. To date, the dredge process has proven itself to be very environment friendly as compared to other standard methods of dredging.

History attests to the strategic and military value of Key West's deep-water harbor. Restoring the channel to an assured depth of 34 feet will provide the nation a capability to bring more and larger Navy warships to the southernmost point of the continental United States. Dredging is a part of the fabric of Key West's historic legacy. Using more environment-friendly methods and high technology monitoring techniques to protect coral and sea grass, Key West, Fla., and the nation benefit from the Key West dredging project. Interested people can learn more about the project by checking out the project's website at: www.keywestharbor-dredging.com/.

Dredge materials are transferred from scow to dump trucks at Fleming Key. Two scows are being used at Fleming Key. When one is being emptied, the other is being filled at the dredge site.

New Navy ship named 'Anchorage'

SPECIAL RELEASE FROM THE U.S. DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE

WASHINGTON (NNS) — Secretary of the Navy Gordon R. England has named the Navy's next amphibious transport dock ship in honor of the city of Anchorage, Alaska.

"Anchorage is an important seaport and one of our nation's great cities. For many years, thousands of young men and women from Alaska have stepped forward to serve America as a Sailor or Marine. The warm hospitality of the people of Anchorage has always welcomed the fleet.

USS Anchorage will project American power to the far corners of the earth, and support the cause of freedom well into the 21st century," England said.

Northrop Grumman Ship Systems, Avondale Operations in New Orleans will build Anchorage. The 684-foot long amphibious transport dock ship will carry a crew of about 360 Navy sailors and 700 Marines.

The ship will be used to transport and land Marines, as well as their equipment and supplies in support of amphibious assault, special operations and expeditionary warfare missions.

These personnel and supplies will be delivered via embarked landing craft air cushions, conventional landing craft or amphibious vehicles, and can be augmented by helicopters or vertical take off and landing aircraft.

Anchorage will play a vital role in the success of the Navy/Marine Corps team. It will carry joint combat forces to the fight with increased lift capacity, superior command and control capabilities, and improved ship survivability.

It will give expeditionary strike groups greater speed, agility and reach, and will help us to dominate the near land battle space. These ships incorporate substantial quality of service improvements to include sit-up berths, a ship services mall, an enhanced fitness facility and a state of the art learning resource center.

The previous Anchorage served for nearly 40 years, including recent service in the global war on terrorism. It was decommissioned in 2003.

For more information on San Antonio-class amphibious transport dock ships, visit www.chinfo.navy.mil/navpalib/factfile/ships/ship-lpd.html.

Your vote counts

BY FLTCM(SW/AW)
"BUCK" HEFFERNAN

I'd like to refresh your memory about the 2000 general election. While there was a significant amount of controversy surrounding the Florida ballots, the real interesting fact is that the 2000 election was the closest in our nation's history. In the electoral vote, George W. Bush defeated Albert A. Gore 271 to 266, but lost the popular vote 50,456,002 to 50,999,897. Because the vote was so close, it's easy to see that every vote counted.

Voting is a right and a privilege secured by all of us who have fought for our country for more than two centuries.

I once heard someone say, "Voting is a God-given right." I couldn't help but think how wrong that person was. No one "gave" us the right to vote. The right to vote was fought for. The right to vote remains today because our military protects our free and democratic way of life. The right to vote should not be taken lightly — too many people paid too many sacrifices to secure it.

FLTCM (SW/AW)
'Buck' Heffernan

My hope is that every Sailor understands how to vote in the 2 November general election. The process is not that complicated, but we have many young Sailors who will vote for the very first time in November. It's up to our leadership to ensure every Sailor has the knowledge and choice to vote.

Whether you are stateside, on a ship, or deployed overseas, we have a process that makes it possible for your vote to count. Personally, it doesn't matter to me if you are Republican, Democrat, Independent, Green Party, etc. What matters to me is that you have the ability to exercise your right to vote and participate in the democratic process.

Every command in the Navy should have a voting assistance officer. The chief of naval operations' challenge to every voting officer is to contact 100 percent of our Sailors to ensure they have the necessary information to obtain an absentee ballot.

My hope is that his challenge is met because unlike so many things in life that we have no choice about, we all have a say in deciding who our elected officials are, including our commander-in-chief. If you have not been contacted, ask the question to your chain of command. Your Chief should be able to direct you to your command's voting assistance officer.

The CNO clearly stated it is the job of leadership to ensure Sailors understand how to vote, not to make them vote. Voting is a personal choice. If a Sailor chooses not to vote, that is his or her choice.

For all of our Sailors who are stationed overseas or on deployed ships, your SF 76 (Registration and Absentee Ballot Request - Federal Post Card Application) should be mailed no later than 30 August. If you are stationed in the United States, you should have your SF 76 mailed no later than 15 September.

If you desire more information on voting, I would suggest you visit the following website: <http://www.persnet.navy.mil/nvap>. The FAQ (frequently asked questions) provide you answers to most questions.

In addition to any information you have already been provided, the Navy is going to conduct a Voting Awareness Campaign 3-11 September in conjunction with Armed Forces Voting Week.

This period of time is critical in reaching not only our active duty Sailors, but also our family members and our Navy civilian workforce. Please assist me in publicizing the need for everyone to become involved.

The military vote is extremely important...especially when you consider we are a country at war. If you fully participate in our democratic process, you can take pride in knowing you personally make a difference.

Kennedy rescues Iranian mariners, Vicksburg helps them get home

FROM USS JOHN F. KENNEDY
PUBLIC AFFAIRS

NORTH ARABIAN GULF (NNS) — USS John F. Kennedy (CV 67) (JFK) rescued six mariners from an Iranian cargo dhow Aug. 14, after learning that the vessel was taking on water.

"We thought we were dead. We made smoke so people would see us. Three boats passed us before the helicopter came to get us," said Mortada G. Asfendary through translator Aviation Structural Mechanic Airman Moataz Ghonem, an Egyptian-American assigned to Helicopter Anti-Submarine Squadron (HS) 15, embarked on John F. Kennedy with Carrier Air Wing (CVW) 17.

A distress signal was initially received by USS Mobile Bay (CG 53), which was operating with Expeditionary Strike Group Aboard USS John F. Kennedy (CV 67), crew members including medical personnel assist Iranian mariners off an HH-60H Seahawk belonging to the "Red Lions" of Helicopter anti-submarine Squadron Fifteen (HS-15).

(ESG) 3 in the North Arabian Gulf. Because the vessel was more than 200 nautical miles away, Mobile Bay relayed the message to John F. Kennedy.

Kennedy dispatched two HH-60 Seahawk helicopters from HS-15 to the scene at 6:40 a.m. local time. Aircraft from Patrol Squadron (VP) 9, a P-3C Orion squadron, monitored the dhow and coordinated helicopter rescue operations.

"The training we get made this rescue very reflexive," said Lt.j.g. James Udall, an HH-60 pilot involved in the operation. "We train for this so many times, and our continual, repetitive training made the coordination flow very smoothly."

"The swimmers and crew chief were outstanding. They didn't hesitate for a moment about getting in the water," he said. "They were focused on rescuing these guys. They take a risk every time they get in the water, but they put that risk aside and did their jobs the way they were trained to do - and saved six lives."

The HS-15 air crews rescued all crewmembers aboard the Iranian-flagged dhow Naji.

"The most striking thing was they didn't seem eager to get off the boat. We believed it was because they didn't want to leave their livelihoods," Udall said.

A broken propeller shaft seal caused the vessel to take on water, according to one survivor.

"When we arrived, the main deck of the ship was a couple of feet from the waterline, but when we left, it was a foot from the waterline," Udall said.

"Thank you, thank you America," said Naser Asfendary after arriving safely aboard John F. Kennedy. Once aboard, Kennedy's medical staff treated the mariners, who were in good health, according to the aircraft carrier's senior medical officer. After getting a check-up and taking a shower, the Iranian guests had a hot meal.

Kennedy's leadership worked closely with the U.S. Navy's 5th Fleet in Bahrain to repatriate the Iranian mariners.

"This was about Sailors helping Sailors," said Capt. Steve Squires, Kennedy's commanding officer.

The international mariners received toiletries, JFK t-shirts, boots, coveralls and tea. The Iranians were transferred to USS Vicksburg (CG 69) for follow-on transport to an Iranian boat.

In 1890, a wealthy Sheik invited an American and his horse to enter the race for the first time. Frank T. Hopkins was a cowboy and dispatch rider for the U.S. cavalry who had once been billed as the greatest rider the West has ever known. The Sheik would put his claim to the test, pitting the American cowboy and his mustang, Hidalgo, against the world's greatest Arabian horses and Beodouin riders - some of who were determined to prevent the foreigner from finishing the race. For Frank, the Ocean of Fire becomes not only a matter of pride and honor, but also a race for his very survival as he and his horse, Hidalgo, attempt the impossible.

Child Development Ctr. Child Care Food Program

The MWR Child Development Center at V4187 Arthur Sawyer Rd. announces its participation in the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Child Care Food Program. Meals will be available at no separate charge to enrolled eligible children at the center.

Parents/guardians of children eligible for free and reduced-price meals must complete an application.

Eligibility information includes the number and names of all household members, social security number of the adult household member signing the application or an indication that this household member does not have one, total monthly household income or Food Stamp case number or Temporary Assistance for Needy Families case number, and the signature of an adult household member.

The Income Eligibility Guidelines for 2004-2005 are available at the center.

Children from families whose income is at or below the levels shown are eligible for free and reduced-price meals.

Households are required to report increases in household income of over $50 per month or $600 per year and increases or decreases in household size. The policy statement for free and reduced price meals is on file at the child care center and may be reviewed by any interested party.

In the operation of the Child Care Food Program, no child will be discriminated against because of race, color, sex, national origin, age or disability. If any member of the household believes he/she has been discriminated against, then he/she should write to the Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

GOOD ADVICE

Brian Daugherty, a representative from Navy Mutual Aid Association (NMAA), the only financial group authorized by the Chief of Naval Operations (CNO) to give briefs on naval installations, offers financial advice to NAS Key West personnel in the command training room Thursday. Daugherty focused on the importance of saving for retirement and offered information about how Sailors can get the most out of their investments while minimizing taxes due on those investments.

Preparing for Charley

As Hurricane Charley stirred in the Caribbean Sea, just south of Cuba on Aug. 11, Naval Air Station Key West Commanding Officer Capt. Jim Scholl ordered an evacuation for all military families living on Sigsbee Park Annex and Truman Annex.

All the displaced families were sent to various hurricane shelters most of which are located on Truman Annex and Boca Chica Field.

In order to accommodate family pets, NAS Key West set up a pet shelter at the Supply Department warehouse on Boca Chica Field headed by SK2 Jacob Burton, a reservist from St. Petersburg, Fla.

In the end, Charley stayed well to the west of Key West, passing over the Dry Tortugas before making landfall in Southwest Florida.
